CASE STUDY · 2016

Growing the BrightTV Subscription Base

Viewership analytics, consumption drivers, and CVM growth recommendations.

Prepared for the CEO by Thompho Mukhumo

Agenda

01 The dataset at a glance

02 User & usage trends

03 What drives consumption

04 Low-consumption days — content fix

05 Initiatives to grow the user base

Overview of the dataset

Jan – Apr 2016 · session-level viewership across 21 channels

10,000

Sessions analysed

4,386

Unique viewers

21

Channels

1,523

Total viewing hours

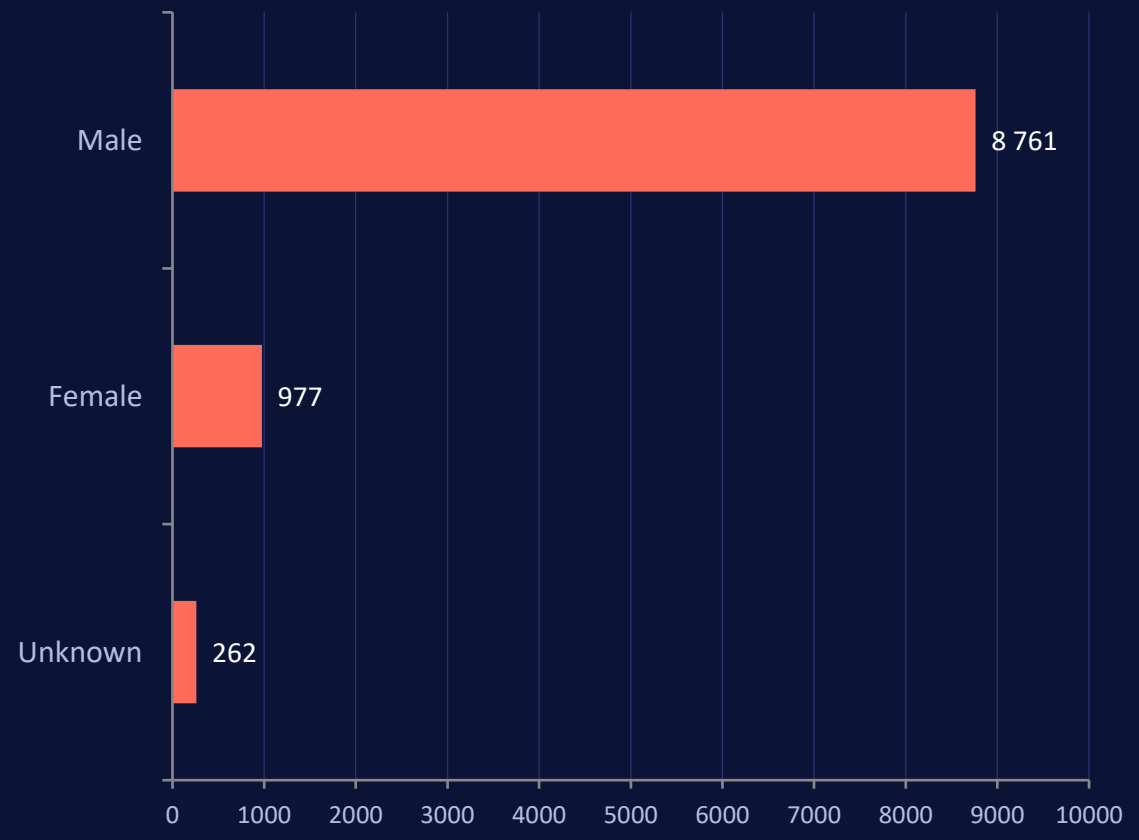
Average session length

9.1 min

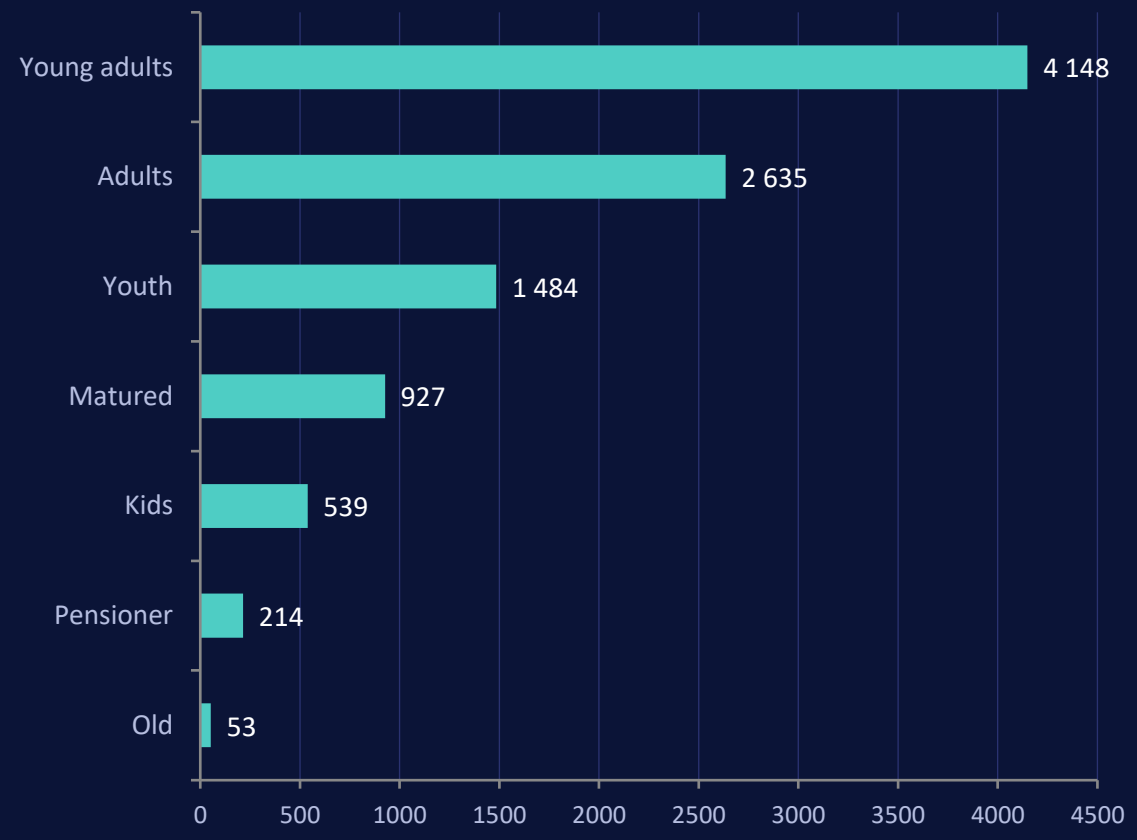
Short-form viewing dominates — 92% of sessions end within 30 minutes. The platform is currently used in quick bursts, not long sit-downs.

Who is watching

Gender split of sessions



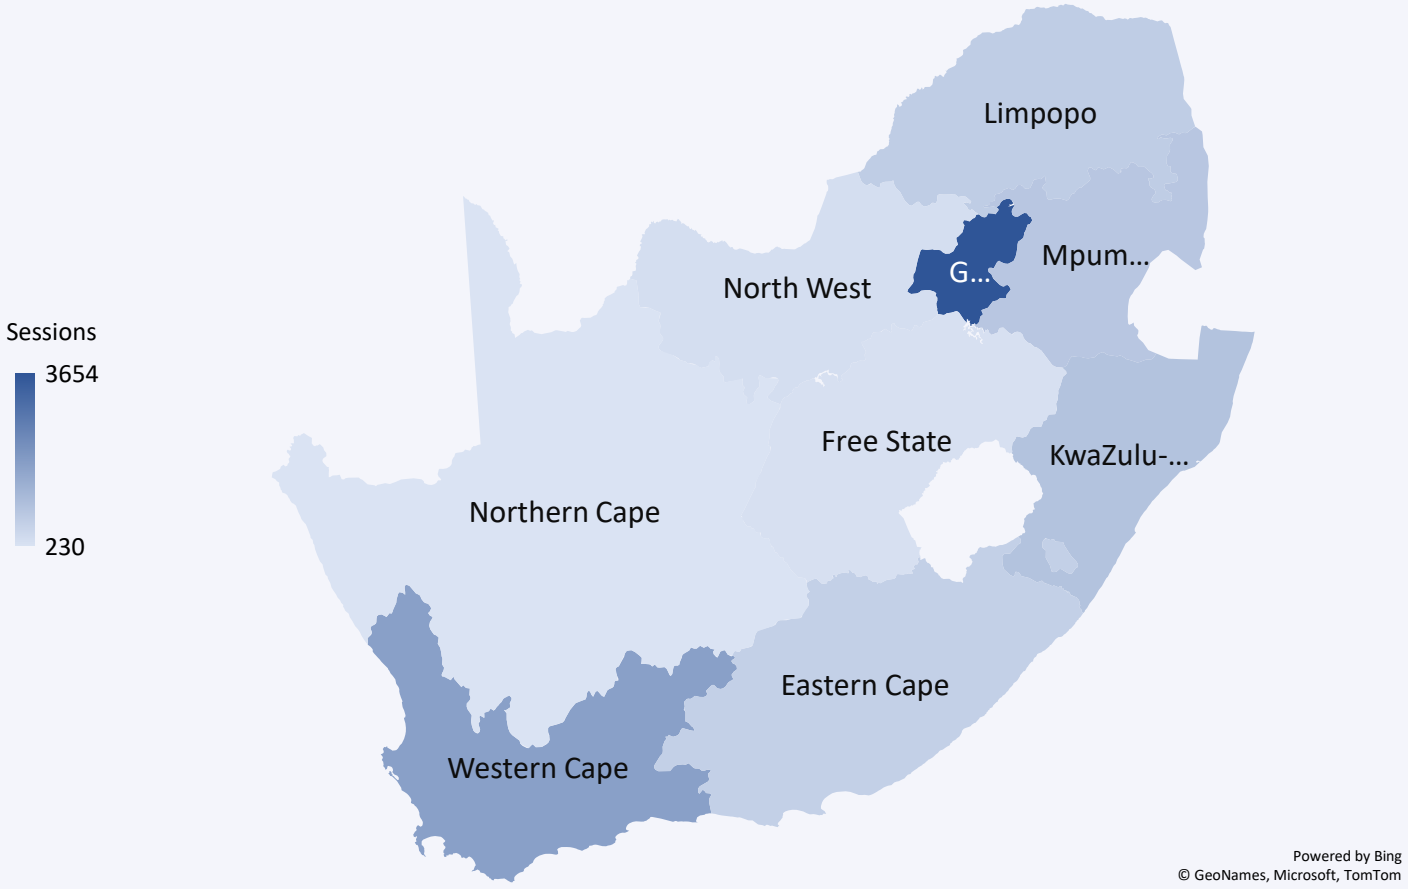
Age bucket



Where viewers live

Three provinces drive 65% of all sessions.

Sessions by province



INSIGHT

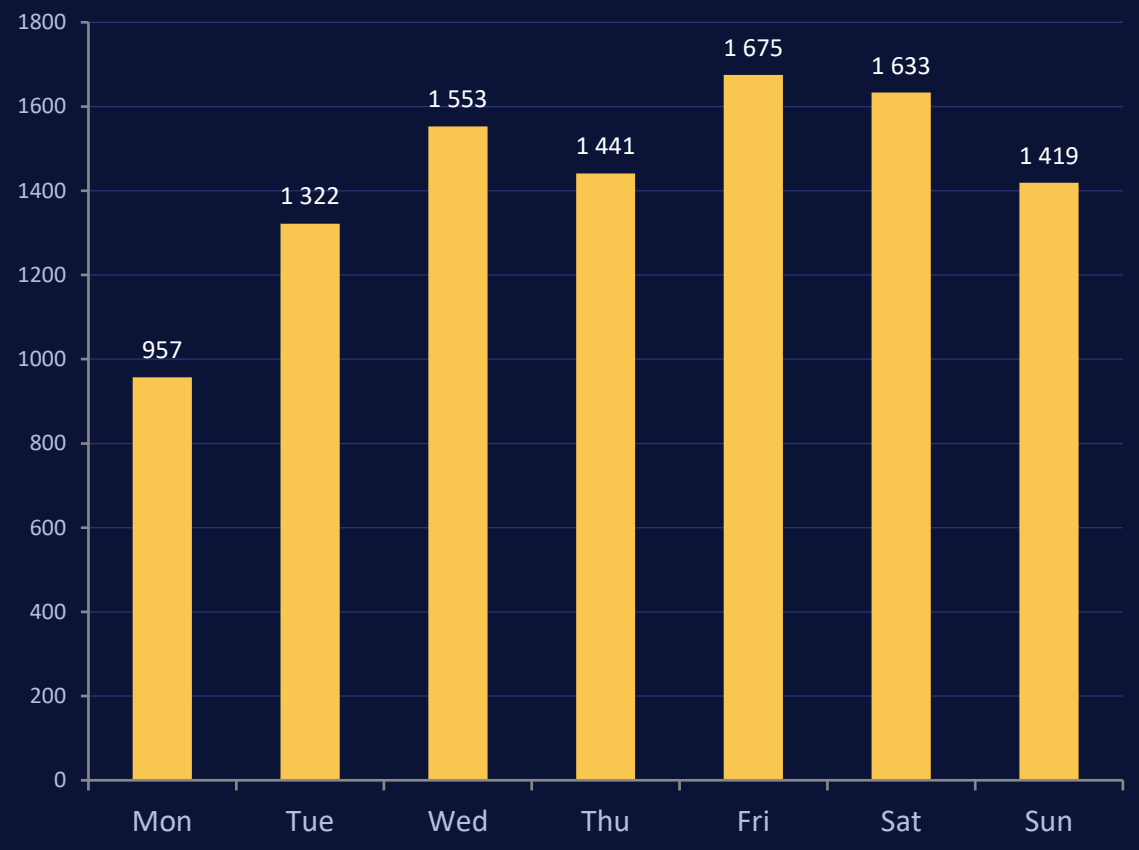
37%

of all sessions come from Gauteng alone.

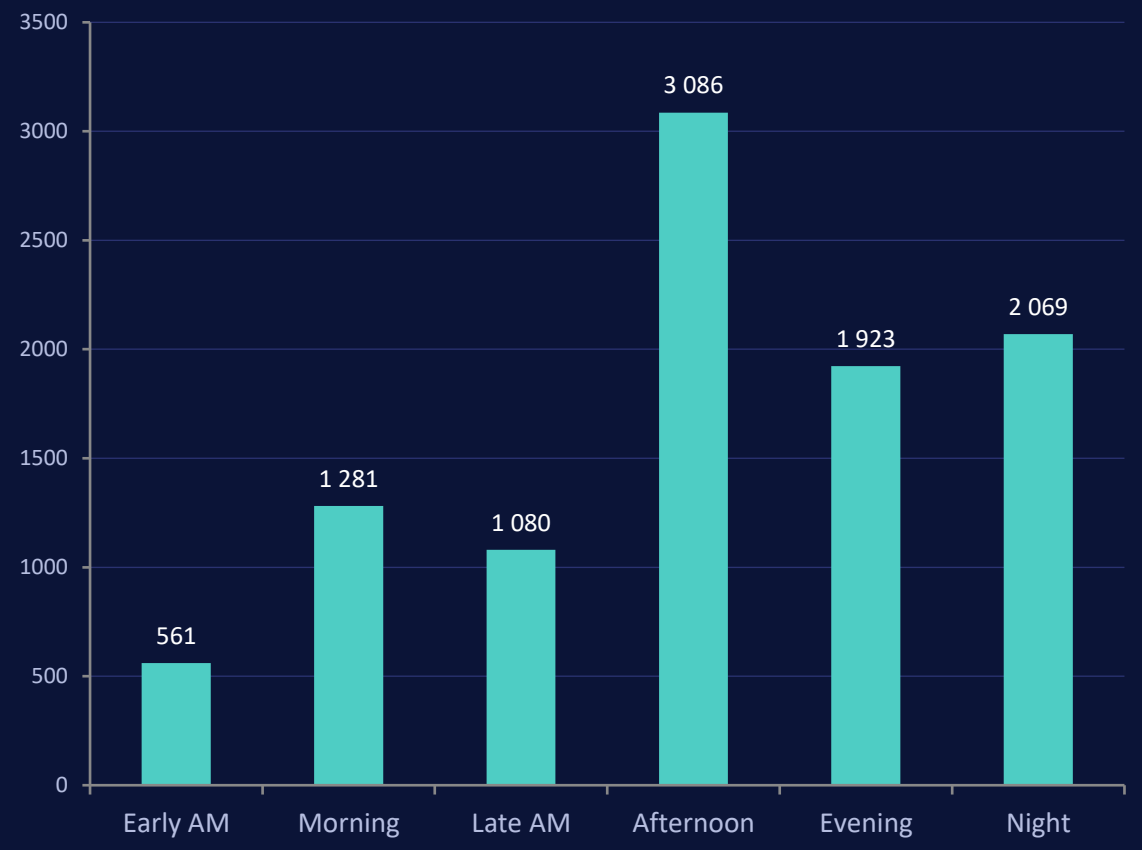
Three rural provinces (NC, FS, NW) together account for under 9% — major untapped acquisition territory.

When they watch

Sessions by day of week



Sessions by time of day



What drives consumption

50%

Time of day

Afternoon (4–6pm) and Night (after 9pm) generate ~50% of all sessions. Lunchtime and prime-time anchor demand.

Fri

Day of week

Wed → Sat is the high-engagement window. Monday is the weakest day across every cohort.

60%

Channel mix

Live sport (SuperSport, ICC Cricket) + music (Channel O, Trace) account for 60% of viewing.

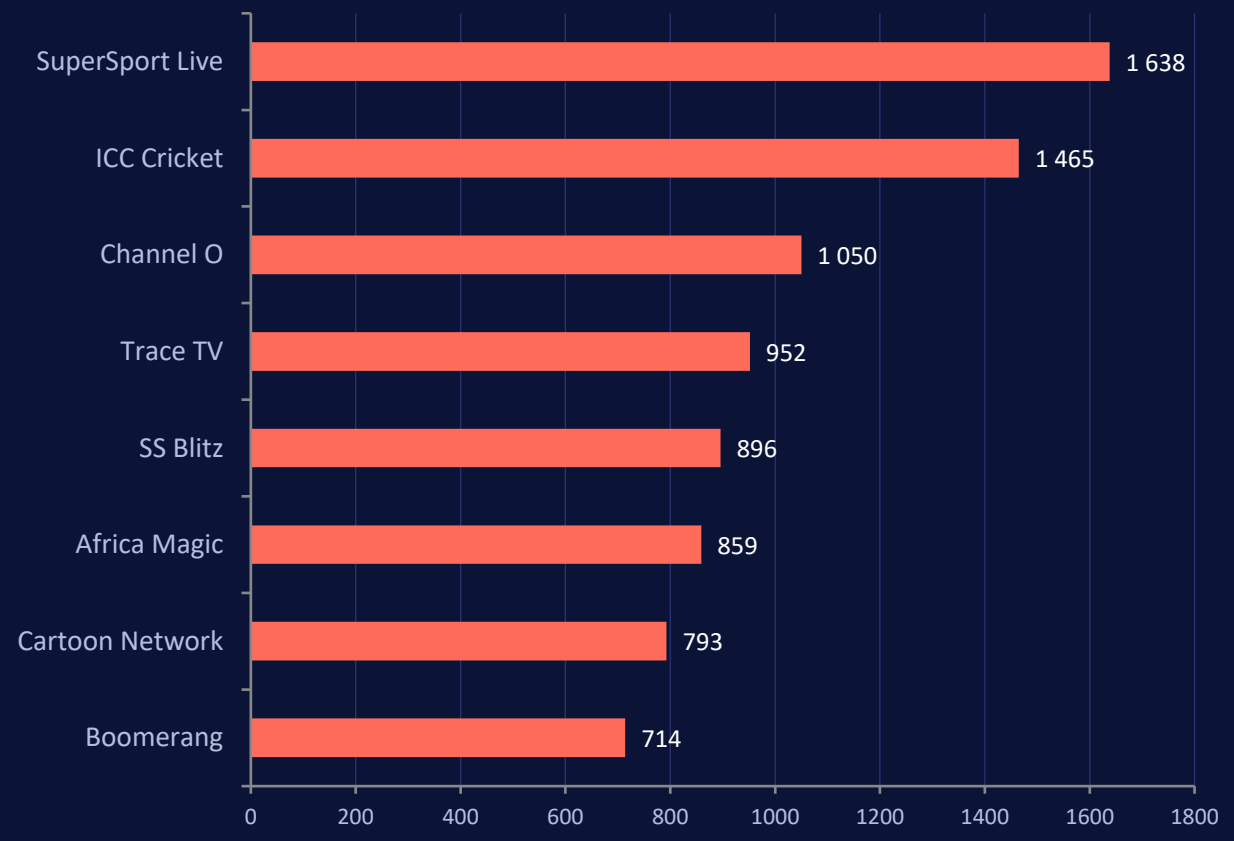
83%

Demographics

Young adults & males in metro provinces dominate — concentrated, repeatable behaviour.

Top channels & low-consumption days

Top 8 channels by sessions



FIX FOR MONDAY & EARLY-WEEK DIPS

Monday is 43% below Friday peak.

- Live sport revivals

  Re-runs of weekend SuperSport highlights & Cricket classics on Monday nights.

- Kids prime-time block

  Cartoon Network / Boomerang afternoon block to capture after-school slot.

- Music takeover Tuesdays

  Channel O / Trace themed countdowns — proven youth pull.

- Telenovela bingeing

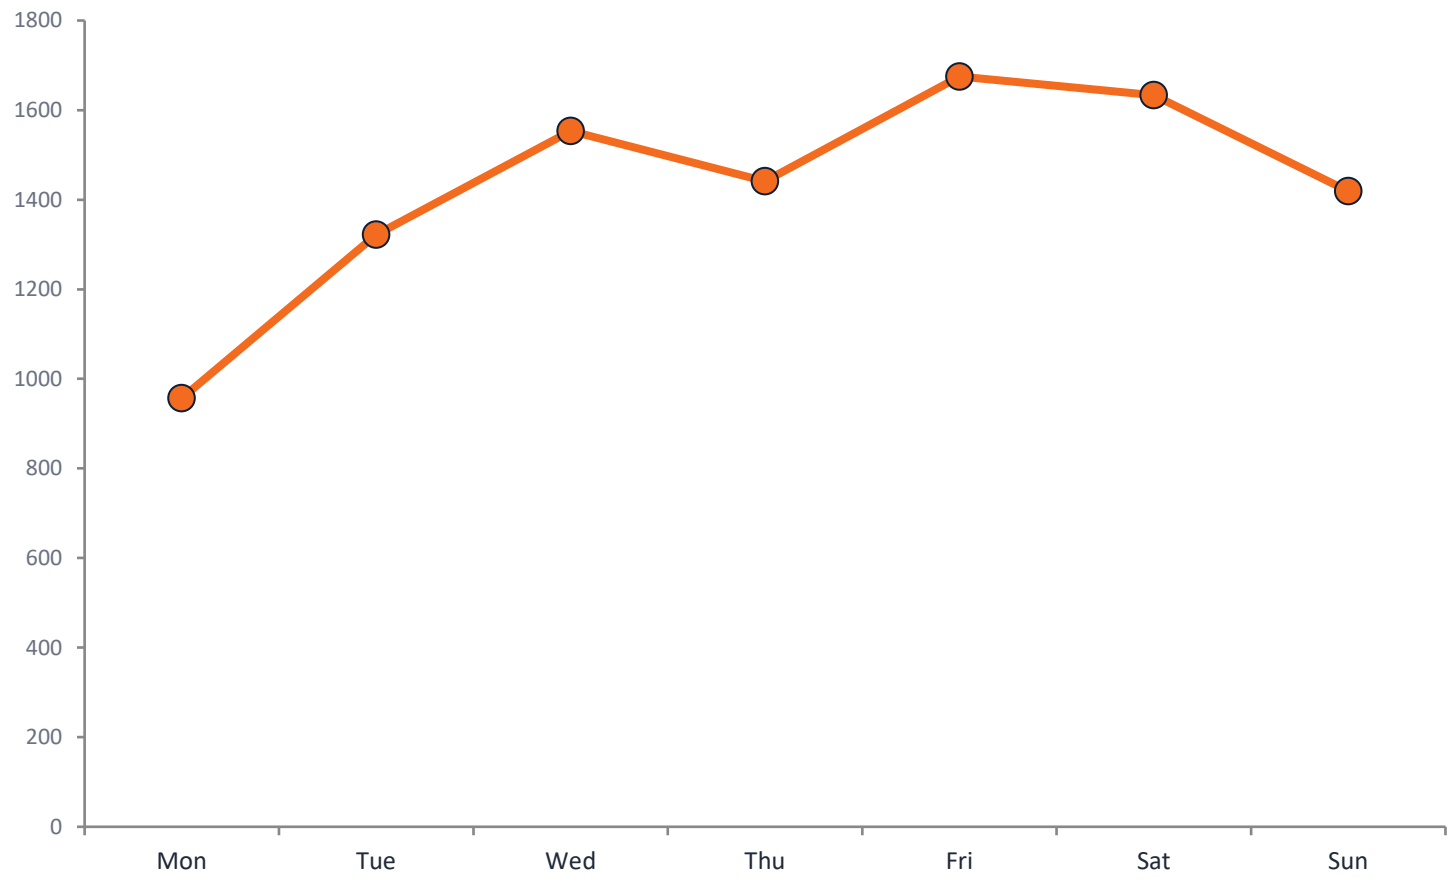
  Africa Magic catch-up marathons in the morning low-consumption window.

Trend Analysis



KEY INSIGHT

Weekend surge

Viewership climbs steadily through the week, peaking Friday–Saturday. Monday is the quietest day — ideal for off-peak experimentation and re-engagement campaigns.

Initiatives to grow the user base

01 Win female viewers

Only 9% of sessions are female. Launch lifestyle / telenovela bundles & female-led campaigns.

02 Crack non-metro provinces

NC, FS, NW < 9% combined. Offer data-light streaming bundles via mobile partnerships.

03 Long-form retention

92% of sessions end inside 30 min. Push series & sport packages to lift average watch time.

04 Referral & family plans

Convert young-adult metro users into household subscriptions to multiply ARPU.

05 Sport tent-pole calendar

Build pre-emptive marketing around cricket & football tent-poles — proven demand drivers.

06 Re-engage Mondays

Loyalty rewards & exclusive premieres on the weakest day to flatten the weekly curve.

SUMMARY

A focused, data-led path to subscription growth.

- Defend the core: live sport + music for young metro males.
- Expand the base: women, rural provinces, family households.
- Lift watch time: long-form bundles to break the 30-minute ceiling.
- Smooth the week: programming & rewards to lift Mondays.

Thank you.